International Symposium on AI, Robotics, Humanoids & the Future of Society & Religion

The inauguration of the 3-day International Symposium on "AI, Robotics, Humanoids & the Future of Society and Religion" organized by the Indian Institute of Science and Religion, Delhi in collaboration with St Aloysius College (Autonomous) and Catholic Chair in Christianity, Mangalore University was held on 18th November 2022 at L.F. Rasquinha Hall, LCRI Block. Dr. Arun Kumar K., Assistant Professor of IT Department, NITK, Suratkal was the chief guest and inaugurated the program. Rev. Fr. Melwin J. Pinto, SJ, Rector of St Aloysius Institutions presided over the programme.

Dr. Sonajhari Minz, Vice-Chancellor, Sido Kanha Murmu University was the guest of honour. Speaking online, she said that the artificial intelligence is not a boon for farmers and other marginalized sections of the society. In this regard, there should be more comprehensive efforts from the experts in the field, she added.

Rev. Dr Job Kojanthadam was the keynote speaker who critically explained the purpose and need of such a symposium. Dr. Arun Kumar K. in his speech explained the origin and evolution of artificial intelligence. Talking about the first computer built in 1948, he explained how it enslaved the entire human race in the later years. He said that artificial intelligence and humanoid robots are being used at a rapid pace all over the world and it is not known whether people are its slaves or it has made them its slaves.

He said that, in the forthcoming years, there is a possibility that 20 percent humanoids will sit and participate with us in such programs. He also gave information on machine learning and deep learning algorithms and also explained the positive and negative aspects of artificial intelligence.

More than 20 scholars will present papers on various topics in this international symposium, and there will also be discussions after each session, which will be critically moderated by a panel of international and national scholars.

Michelle D'Souza compered the event efficiently. Flona Soans, Convenor of the programme introduced the guests. Rev. Dr Praveen Martis, S.J. welcomed the gathering. Rev. Dr Ivan D'Souza, Head of the Chair in Christianity, Mangalore University proposed the vote of thanks.

Konkani Bhaas - Novo Sonvsar Novo Distavo' - One day national symposium

Institute of Konkani, St Aloysius College (Autonomous) organised a national level symposium on the theme "Konkani Bhaas - Novo Sonvsar Novo Distavo" (Konkani language – New World New Perspectives) here on October 15.

Principal Dr (Fr) Praveen Martis SJ, in his introductory remarks, said, "There should be more resources available in any language if it is to be utilised more frequently. Following that, learning and using that language will be simpler. As a professor of Chemistry, if I have to translate any chemistry article into Konkani there aren't many appropriate Konkani words. Konkani language has to be improved in this area. We must take the initiatives in that direction. Further, Konkani lacks qualified linguists. At least one student needs to study linguistics each year to address this shortfall. So, attention must be paid to a number of factors in order to safeguard and develop our mother tongue Konkani."

Dr Purnanand Chari, Associate Professor of Konkani, Mallikarjuna College, Goa was the chief guest. In his address, he said that there are other barriers preventing the development of the Konkani language in addition to the difficulties already posed. "Yes, it is a very joyful thing that the government of Karnataka has also partnered with particular organisations to promote Konkani in the state. The guidelines for the growth of Konkani from a new angle could be formed if today's discussion is successful in generating normative responses to issues related to growth of Konkani," he said.

Fr Melwin Joseph Pinto SJ, Rector, St Aloysius College institutions, who presided over the programme, said that the Konkani script debate was an outdated and worn-out coin. "You, who must transmit Konkani to the current and upcoming generations, must transcend caste, geography, religion, and politics and adopt a fresh outlook in order to meet the language's development demands.

Everything else will be alright because you are a pioneer in this area," Fr Pinto added.

There were three papers presented by three experts from the Konkani field. Dr (Fr) Melwyn Pinto SJ spoke about the Konkani literature available in Kannada script. Dr Kasturi Mohan Pai highlighted the scope of Konkani in the educational field. Fr Jason Pinto SDB dwelt on the script issue and the way forward. Group discussions were held in the afternoon. The secretaries of eight groups presented the reports of the group discussion.

Ms Flora Castelino welcomed the guests. Miss Teen World Super Model Wencita Dias compered the programme. Mr Joachim Pinto proposed the vote of thanks.

'Astitva Mangalore' presented a Konkani programme called 'Poinnari'; Goan students presented Mando and Deknni, sang songs, and recited poetry at the end of the symposium.

Thirty eight students and three lecturers from Shenoi Goembab School of Languages and Literature, Goa University, seven students and two lecturers from Shree Mallikarjun and Shri Chetan Manju Desai College, Canacona, Goa, and 41 students and two lecturers from St Aloysius College (Autonomous) Mangalore coupled with a few Konkani writers participated in the symposium.

Interactive session with Mr Anshu Kumar Srivastav IPS

The Department of Political Science, St Aloysius College (Autonomous) organised an interactive session with Mr. Anshu Kumar Srivastav IPS, the Deputy Commissioner of Police, Mangaluru. The theme of the session was "Youth in the Society", held on October 7, 2022 at 4.00 -

5.45 p.m. at Sanidhya, St Aloysius College (Autonomous), Mangaluru.

The Principal, Rev. Dr. Praveen Martis S.J., addressed the gathering with words of welcome. He said that the youth can "make and break" the society and therefore emphasised, quoting the former USA President Roosevelt, on the need for building the youth for the future. He highlighted the initiative the college has undertaken to impart civil service coaching to students within and outside the college.

Mr. Anshu Kumar Srivastav is a 2018 batch IPS officer. He was the SP in coastal security force Udupi before his current posting at Mangaluru and an alumnus of IIT Delhi wherein he completed mechanical engineering. DCP Srivastava associated most of the progress in the society to the contributions of the youth by exemplifying Mahatma Gandhi, Ishwar Vidyasagar, Jayaprakash Narayan etc who started young to lead social cum political change. Today start-ups or innovations are being largely led by the youth wherein his own classmates or seniors from IIT Delhi were instrumental in the creation of Zomato or Flipkart. Youth expect and drive the change and many a times expect challenges of conservatism and pessimism.

The DCP with his typical sense of humour participated with about 100 students through a lively interaction. He narrated his journey from his childhood to IIT Delhi and finally as a IPS officer. He advised students that a strong decision and self-discipline can enable students to clear the UPSC exams and in one's job area. Motivation is not a significant factor as it can be lost over a period of time whereas self-discipline keeps a person to do one's job against all circumstances. On questions regarding the spread of fake news and the role of police, DCP Srivastava said that today youth are not able to decide on authentic news. Media is driven by corporatism of creating sensational and emotion-oriented news. It is the responsibility of the reader to read, verify and then circulate.

On questions of corruption in public administration and the ability of officers to criticise the government, he said that dedication, honesty and up-rightness helps a person or officer to overcome such evils. IPS being a constitutional post, an officer can refuse to follow an unconstitutional order instead of training guns on the government through media. Governments decide on policies through much deliberation and in consultation with stakeholders which also include the police. It is a myth that local MPs and MLAs control the IPS officers.

Some questions were asked on the rise of fear among youth given the communal nature of politics, poverty and sense of political helplessness. The DCP said that the youth have to face resistance if they have to stand up for their rights or truth. Apart from the police meeting the civilians under various dialogue formats in Mangaluru under the beat system or with peace communities, SC/ST communities etc., it is decided to start youth communities too. He said that justice is delayed not because of the police, but because of delay in court cases. Cases are delayed when the victim or witnesses turn hostile. Being upright sometimes requires you to follow up a case through the court system and hence requires patience instead of succumbing to the system.

Towards the end, the DCP emphasised that the youth should stay away from drugs which can ruin one's life and future; any cases of blackmail to be reported to the police as early as possible to avoid further victimisation; and to be careful as to what one shares on the internet as the data is saved forever. He extended his help to students, welcomed them to his office for interaction, and most importantly willingly agreed to assist students of the college for research-based projects in collaboration with the police department.

Dr. Norbert Lobo welcomed the DCP with a sapling while the Principal thanked with a memento. Also Mr. Sahil Khader from IIBA presented a memento on behalf of the students. The entire program was initiated and coordinated by Dr. Rose Veera D'Souza, Dean of Faculty of Arts and HOD Political Science. Ms. Vidhula Lokesh from III BA Political Science compered and delivered the vote of thanks.

Huddle - Session 1

The Department of English, St Aloysius College (Autonomous) organized the first 'HUDDLE' of the semester, a book review, presentation, and documentary screening event on 11 October 2022, between 4:00 and 5:00 p.m. at the Sanidhya Auditorium. The event was coordinated by Ms Anushree Bhat M. and Ms Amritha C, Assistant Professors from the Department of English. The event commenced with a soothing blithe prayer song by Ms Merlin Abraham from III BA followed by an idiomatic welcome speech delivered by Ms. Anushree Bhat M., Assistant Professor, Department of English and one of the coordinators of the event.

Mr Wilson Fernandes, Assistant Professor, Department of English reviewed the book 'Difficult Daughters', a novel by Manju Kapur, who won the 1999 Commonwealth Writers' Prize for her stellar work.

Kapur is known for her persuasive writings about social and psychological issues in the post-independent era. The novel delves into the fundamental idea of feminism in the modern world.

It portrays the women from three generations, one among them being a conventional orthodox woman, the other one having a rather protagonist mind-set, and the emancipated, excruciated woman. The conundrums faced by women in a patriarchal society, and their obligation towards reconciling the social, racial, and vituperative norms are highlighted in the novel. The themes of dowry, alienation, indefatigable pressure and sanctimonious attitude have been brilliantly depicted through the epilogue and political allegory.

The novel revolves around a dynamic, vivacious character named Ida, who unravels the inextricable past etched on her late protagonist's mother's life. It reveals the conservative paradigm that has cascaded into a precarious predicament for women in the society. It admonishes us about the condescending attitude of people towards women, who are deemed to be a liability and a sweet burden to their parents. Thus, the novel foregrounds the intricate relationship between mothers and daughters and the confluence of western modernism and erroneous paradigm.

Post this eloquent review of the book, the floor was open for deliberate discussions and congruent reviews. The programme wound up at 5 past 10 with an effusive vote of thanks proposed by Dr Charles V. Furtado, the Head of the English Department.

Inauguration of Al Energy Jar

The English Department introduced a new 'best practice' in the department called 'Al Energy Jar' this noon. A best practice to be utilised by all who are in need of an instant energiser.

This thoughtful initiative, which is also the first of its kind to be introduced in the whole college campus, was formally inaugurated on 19-10-22 by the Principal, Rev. Dr Praveen Martis SJ along with the Registrar, Dr Alwyn D'Sa. The HOD of the Department of English, Dr Charles V. Furtado, who anchored the programme, spoke on the conception of the idea and the philosophy behind it.

The 'Al Energy Jar', resplendent with colourful adornments by three enthusiastic students of I B.A. English Major, is filled to the brim with small packets of biscuits, wafers and chocolates. The contents of the jar are for students, teachers, administrative staff and any hungry soul who visits the department and is in need of an energiser. It is a humble endeavour to provide a healthy tidbit to those who have not had access to any nourishment in the middle of all the hustle and bustle of the day. It is an inclusive jar open to all and can also be refilled by those who are inspired thus. The department looks forward to the jar creating a conducive context to imbibe the spirit of empathy, enhance a sense of belonging, grow together and inculcate the habit of give and take.

Interactive session on "Climate Change"

Venue: A 204, Admin Block, St. Aloysius College (Autonomous), Mangaluru.

October 17, 2022 (4.00 p.m. to 5.00 p.m)

The Department of Political Science at St. Aloysius College (Autonomous) Mangaluru organised an interactive session on "Climate Change". Mr. John Paul Jose, the founder of Livelihood Trust and the co-founder International Solidarity Project addressed the students by giving a brief outline of how climate change has taken place since the Ice Age upto the present age. The current age of Anthropocene is determined by man-made activities that portends its ill effects not only on the climate but also on sustainability. This may decide the very fate of live on planet Earth. Mr. Jose informed the students that man made activities exacerbated by capitalism and consumerism affects especially those people living below poverty line, the indigenous people, people living in coastal regions or in islands, etc the most.

The interactive session saw students posing questions on carbon footprint, on whether shift to cleaner technologies and products adding further to pollution given the fact that new industries and plants are to be established, on climate change and conflict, etc. Mr. Jose highlighted that the world can offer solutions to may of the climate change problems especially in the economic field. Sector by sector solutions are required to address climate change issues. Therefore country-wise polices and mechanisms have to be in placed that restricts the abilities of the companies and industries from polluting the environment through emissions of greenhouse gases. Laws and compliances have uniform effect along with individual efforts to maintain the current levels of climate change and not further escalate it. The aim should be to maintain and reduce and not to increase and escalate climate change.

Dr. Rose Veera D'Souza, Dean of Arts Faculty and HOD Dept. of Political Science convened the program. She introduced Mr. John Paul Jose and welcomed the gathering. The interactive session was attended by 85 students of first- and third-year BA.

Huddle Session 2

'No Longer Human', a novel by Osamu Dazai was reviewed by II BA students Ms Swathi Sharma and Ms Alvita at the second session of Huddle held in the Sanidhya Hall at St Aloysius College (Autonomous) at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, 11th November, 2022.

The event was coordinated by Ms Anushree Bhat M. and Ms Amritha C. from the Department of English. The review was conducted in the presence of Dr Charles V. Furtado, the Director of Admin Block and HOD of the English Department, Dr Ratan Tilak Mohunta, Dr Sylvia Rego, Dr Melisa Goveas and other teachers from the department.

The event kicked off with the rendition of a prayer by Ms Aparna V. Elayath followed by the welcome speech presented by Ms Sakshi Kamath. Ms Alvita began the review with an overview of the themes discussed in the book and an introduction to the works of Osamu Dazai. She highlighted that the cover of 'No Longer Human' perfectly represents the detachment from human species that Dazai felt and that which forms the crux of the novel.

The mic was the passed onto Ms Swathi Sharma who led the audience deeper into the book. She described the book as a semi-autobiography as it reflected events and experiences from Dazai's life through the character Yozo. By the end of the very engrossing session, the audience was enabled to get a profound understanding of the book thanks to the reviewers' firm grasp on Dazai's works. The presenters left no question unanswered.

The exciting and successful Huddle concluded with a vote of thanks by Mr Don Jacob sprinkled generously with dollops of warmth and humour.

Tribute to Dr Norbert Lobo

Nearly Seven Thousand St Aloysius College Students Pay Their Last Respect To Their Beloved Professor Dr Norbert Lobo- The Director Of Admin Block And Associate Professor In Economics At St Aloysius College (Autonomous), Mangaluru. "Dr NORBERT LOBO, YOUR LIFE WAS A BLESSING, YOUR MEMORY A TREASURE. YOU ARE SADLY MISSED"

It was a sad day for the nearly seven thousand plus students, along with staff and non-teaching staff, Jesuit priests who gathered at the Mother Teresa Peace Park to pay their last respect to one of their beloved Professor Dr NORBERT LOBO, who passed away on Thursday, 20 October 2022 at the age of 57, due to illness. Hearing the news of Dr Norbert Lobo's sudden death, the blow was hard, and the shock was severe- I never thought that death would come to him so quickly because he was quite active, energetic and healthy in May when I had a chat with him at the ECONOVANZA 2022 programme hosted by the Department of Economics, St Aloysius College, and that was the last interaction with him, and the last that I clicked photos of him at that programme. It is well said, "Death is a glad awakening from our troubled existence". What we call life here is nothing but a passing, in a land of captivity. Sadly missed!

I write this report with great sadness over the unimaginable loss of Dr Norbert Lobo, an ardent reader of Mangalorean.com, and a great fan of mine who always appreciated and complimented me on my reports and articles. No doubt he fought a brave and strong battle for a few months but seems like his illness would not allow him to get better. He took each day in stride, never really complaining, always feeling in a good mood and interacting with his colleagues and students jovially and socially. Prolonged illness may take away the joy we have from having these people with us on this earth longer than if they didn't have that sickness. But Lobo's illness couldn't dim his smile. And what a peculiar smile it was! He was a man of humour and always jovial while interacting with whomever he met. Everything good, everything wholesome, everything pure about manhood was found in his unique smile and humour.

"Lives of great men all remind us, We can make our lives sublime, And, departing, leave behind us, Footprints on the sands of time"- Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

But there was more—a hint of joyfulness and fun, a sense of self-confidence, an unmistakable kindness. It was the kind of smile that drew people to him. He didn't express any feelings of his suffering, instead, he stood strong and interacted with his colleagues, students and friends happily. If anything, everyone would agree with me that his personality and smile was brighter and more joyous the last time we all saw him. But his illness was helpless against it.

Although his health was deteriorating day by day recently, our friend Dr Lobo was doubly blessed with his natural personality—inside and out. His illness could do nothing to diminish either. It was his personality that shone through his eyes and smiled every day of his life. His illness couldn't steal his popularity. To know him was to love him and to root for him. We should all be so lucky to have as many friends as Dr Norbert did. But his death ripped a hole in the lives of everyone who loved him and also left us devastated and heartsick. His sad demise robbed the world of someone who would have done great things—someone who would have made a difference in others.

Dr Norbert Lobo's beautiful spirit will surely live on through his wife Anita, a teacher at Milagres PU College, and his two daughters -Anora and Anoma,(both alumni of St Aloysius College) and they will always know how much he loved them. He tried with all his heart to stay for them, but God called him, and he had to go. I can judge and say that during his illness, I know that there were two things that might have kept him going, the love and care from his wife and children and hope, otherwise to face another day would have been tough, and I know how many days he must have had like that.

The condolence meet was held at Mother Teresa Peace Park on Friday, 21 October began with a prayer by the Student Council and B A students choir, followed by Scripture Readings- from the Bible by Dr Joyce Sabina Lobo (Dept of Political Science); from the Bhagavad Gita by Ms Bhavyashree Shetty (Dept of Journalism) and from the Quran by Afreed (II BA Economics student).

In her condolence message on behalf of students, Ms Vidhula KL, IIIrd BA student said, "We have lost an excellent teacher, understanding guide and mentor, and above all, a humble and kind human. This is an irreparable loss to his family, the department, the institute and all his students. This has created a void that can never be filled. He helped me to apply for a scholarship, even after I had missed the final date. He was passionate about the subject and teaching, and always dedicated to what he did, which was why his classes always had a different aura. I do not recall any instances when he hadn't been friendly or hadn't been smiling. It is going to be difficult to continue studying the subject in his absence. I would like to remember and thank Sir for all his invaluable contributions as a teacher, scholar and mentor, and pray that his ideals, wisdom and knowledge continue to guide us and show us the path ahead. May his soul Rest in Eternal Peace".

Fr Praveen Martis SJ-the Principal of St Aloysius College in his condolence message said, "A versatile leader, an inspirational teacher, a jovial and empathetic friend, a disciplinarian, a scholar of repute, an author of great credence, Dr Norbert Lobo has left to his heavenly abode after a brief period of illness. For all of us, the reality of his departure from us has not yet sunk in and it will take a long time to come to terms with his loss. In faith, all of us believe that he has moved from this earthly life into another life of bliss and grace, liberated from pain, disease and suffering. He began his life journey with humble beginnings and steadily rose to eminence through sheer hard work, be it academics, research scholarship, research guidance, leadership, human resource sharing or teaching. His service to the College has been impeccable, committed and loyal”.

“He has stood by the management and the institution in its pleasant times and times of crises. His service to his students as a friend, philosopher and guide has been commendable. He believed in empowering students by guiding them not only in his discipline but also in helping them find their careers through engaging career guidance workshops. His commitment to duty has been exemplary; until the day he was admitted to the hospital and in spite of the physical discomfort of the ailment, we could see him in his office discharging his duties as the Director and engaging in classes. His dynamic role in the teacher movement as a teacher leader at the local, regional and national levels has catalysed several reforms in teacher welfare. Today, each one of them will fondly be remembering him for his interventions for the teaching fraternity at the individual community levels. In spite of his packed schedule, Dr Norbert was able to dedicate quality time to research and publications. His books on various aspects of Economics are eagerly sought after by teachers and students of Economics. As the Director of Admin block, he has been instrumental in setting standards of discipline and priority to a strong and engaging academic atmosphere”, added Fr Praveen Martis Sj (Watch the video below for the Principal’s Full message).

Fr Melwin Pinto SJ, the Rector of St Aloysius Institutions in his condolence message said, “The Management, staff and his beloved students express their solidarity with the bereaving family and pray that almighty God who is the giver of all life be their solace in this time of grave loss. It would not be easy to come to terms with the reality that he is not there in the Director’s Room or his disciplined steps in the corridors of the Administrative Block. We thank God for the gift of Dr Norbert Lobo to all of us and all that he has been to us. We will cherish the memories of his companionship and guidance. May his noble soul rest in eternal peace!” (For Rector’s full message watch the video below).

Dr Rose Veera D’Souza-the Dean of Arts faculty in her message said, “A multifaceted personality, Dr Norbert was not only a great teacher, an excellent colleague who worked and spoke for the well-being of teachers, leading the teacher’s movement, a genuine leader who could voice his opinion fearlessly, a man of institution and people. As a teacher, he not only served students selflessly and passionately he wrote for them and also directed their path through numerous career guidance programmes nearing 656 programmes. He has authored 17 textbooks and co-authored 3 books apart from authoring 2 workbooks for students. His CV runs into 39 pages so methodically documented. No words to explain his reach to students and the loss we feel. I wish the students have looked at his CV to capture the immense contributions that he has made within the short span. Probably one who could achieve all this after the retirement Dr Norbert has completed it in service. Such is his vibrancy”.

The leadership that he navigated through the teacher’s movement, constantly guiding the teachers to be vocal about their rights of course has been a herculean task. As a colleague, he was always very supportive and encouraging. He is an institutional man who had a vision and sensitivity for productive change. He guided our students’ council for numerous years. Was great guidance related to higher education and now when NEP came in, we all were dependent on him for clarifications. His love for the community was far-fetched. Above all, he was a man who loved his family the most. As light has faded, it seems darker but we know for sure that a great soul never dies. The contributions and memories created by Dr Norbert live on. His selfless contribution aimed to inspire the young and the old have been canonical. Helping the young find a direction was something he lived for. Teaching students over the years and dedicating his time and knowledge for the betterment of society was his motto. The ripples he created in society will live on”, added Dr Rose Veera D’Souza.

Comper of the condolence meet, Student Council President Miss Letitia D’Costa in her introduction message said, “For some moments in life there are no words, today that’s exactly the way we all feel. It’s never easy to bid adieu to someone so instrumental in our lives here at the institution. Dr Norbert Lobo whose charisma was extremely vivacious has left a void that cannot be filled. Today as we gather to honour him, we all need to remember and pay obeisance to a man who led by example, and keep his memory alive. This poignant moment teaches us that life is transient and we need to make the most of every moment and cherish all those around us. That’s what our beloved director would want from every one of us”.

“A natural leader and an esteemed and well-respected professor, he touched many lives in his capacity and the various positions he held. His life was a hallmark of constant learning and achievement which was evident in the academic degrees that he obtained and the various positions he held. His dedication and commitment especially to the students was noteworthy. A great motivator, he helped shape many lives through career counselling and guidance. An academician, astute leader, mentor, and eloquent teacher are just a few qualities of Dr Norbert Lobo that sum up his personality and traits which were an asset to our institution. His smiling countenance and jovial disposition would definitely bring cheer and light up a weary face. In a nutshell, it’s hard to accept the fact that such a personality is no more amongst us today. Although indisposed with health issues, his calm and composed demeanour kept everyone at ease despite his personal struggle, which speaks volumes of his integrity and how much he appreciated people around him. In the end, he fought a good fight, finished the race and kept his faith. They say there is a reason, They say that time will heal, But neither time nor reason, Will change the way we feel, Dr Norbert Lobo”, added Miss Letitia. The condolence meet concluded with a few hymns sung by the college choir and students.

The students of the Commerce Association Core and Secretaries were also present.

A total of 264 B. Com students participated in Comercio 2022

The Theme:

The theme of Comercio- Discover The Undiscovered was used to highlight the values of the various unseen tribes. Significance of the theme. Every tribe has different characteristics that make them unique in their own way. There are more than 550 tribes in India that have had their presence in the country for a long time. Each community has its own individuality that separates it from the other tribes. Similarly, in a corporate setting, one needs to stand out in order to reach greater heights. The different skills they possess make them special, and believing in those skills and nurturing them helps them grow in the corporate world. The main motive of 'COMMERCIO 2022' is to transform every person and teach the qualities and values of a tribe in every individual.

The Events: The events of Comercio 2022 kicked off on the 17th of October. There were 4 exciting events organized this year for Comercio. 1. Kurumba: Minute To Win It 2. Kodavas : HR x Marketing 3. Siddis: PR x Finance 4. Soliga: The Business Plan

Kurumba- Minute To Win It: An event based on the concept of Minute to Win It, tested a team's ability to work under the pressure of one minute and think quickly but also smartly. This event included several rounds in the form of activities that were general as well as commerce related to creating a unique spin on the concept. This would help develop the participants' problem-solving skills, communication, and teamwork. A team of two from each class participated in this event from 1st, 2nd, and 3rd-year B.Com. Kurumba was conducted on 2 days (18th – 19th October). Kodavas- HR x Marketing: An event where the participants have tested their Marketing skills and their knowledge about Human resource structure. This event gave the Participants insight into challenges faced while Marketing products, and also gave the participants a real-life court experience with a judge, witnesses, structured proceedings, and more. All the cases were related to Human resources. This event was conducted with a team of 3 students from each class. It was conducted over 3 days (18th-20th Oct) Siddis- PR x Finance: An event where the participants were tested based on their financing skills and their long-lasting influence on the company's public image. This event gave the participants an insight into how to defend their companies. The teams were tested on their budget-making, knowledge of finance, compatibility, and coordination between the partners. It was an event where 2 members formed a team and it was conducted from 18th-20th October, 2022 between 1 pm-3 pm.

Soliga- The Business Plan: One of the main highlights of Comercio 2022 was the bazaar, which gave students substantial experience in manufacturing, marketing, and selling products. After the team convinced the judges of the product, the product was sold to students over the next two days. Sales were on the basis of coupons. The team with the maximum number of coupons was to be declared the winner of this event. This event consisted of four participants from each class held over three days i.e., 18th October to 20th October 2022

Cavelchi Sundari Tiatr's Poster Released at St Aloysius

Cavelchi Sundari is a musical Tiatr which will be staged at St Aloysius College, Mangalore on 25th November at 3 pm onwards in LCRI Auditorium.

On 4th November Cavelchi Sundari tiatr's posters were released for the awareness of general public by Mr Roy Castelino, PRO of Mangalore Diocese & Mr Micheal Gracias Director of Cavelchi Sundari. He explained the importance of Tiatr in the academic level and Tiatr culture though it's a Goan heritage but, started in Mumbai because, Goankars were migrated to Mumbai for daily bread.

Principal Rev.Dr Praveen Martis SJ, St Aloysius College (Autonomous) and Director of AIMIT Rev.Dr Melvyn Pinto, SJ, Mrs Flora Castelino, HOD of Konkani Dept were on the dais.

Ms Diya Mascarenhas compered the programme.Dr Alwyn D'Sa, Registrar, welcomed the gathering and Sr Laveena Dsouza, Organizing Committee Secretary rendered the vote of thanks.

About 'Cavelchi Sundari'

130-year-old tiatr (Konkani language play) titled Cavelchi Sundari (The Belle of Cavel) created history after it was staged in Cavel, the tiny South Mumbai area that is the backdrop of the play.

150th birth anniversary of its playwright João Agostinho, endearingly known as Pai Tiatrist (father of Konkani theatre) written this tiatr first, but, could not play due to some reasons.

Tiatr is a type of musical theatre popular in the state of Goa. Cavelchi Sundari was Pai Tiatrist's debut play, then called teatro in Portuguese, and later tiatr in keeping with Konkani phonetics. He, along with Goan emigrant Lucasinho Ribeiro, who had staged the first ever tiatr titled Italian Bhurgo in 1892, hoped that the Goan diaspora in Bombay would find their form of theatre to be a sophisticated alternative to the subpar forms of Konkani theatre that existed then. This meant zagor, in which actors were usually inebriated, mouthed profanities, and slipped in sexual innuendoes, neighbourhood gossip about extra-marital affairs, quarrels in between dialogues; and khell—travelling street plays that were equally crude. Pai Tiatrist wanted his scripts to educate the masses, rid of societal evils and stereotypes. According to the book titled, When the Curtains Rise—Understanding Goa's Vibrant Konkani Theatre, by Andre Rafael Fernandes, Pai Tiarist “was aware of the need to have his plays rooted in his own people and culture... he set out to explore the social problems and situations of Goa and Goans from the very beginning of his own efforts as a playwright when he composed The Belle of Cavel in 1893.” His first tiatr thus, became the exemplar for generations of Konkani tiatrists (playwrights, usually the director, writer and actor rolled-in-one) thereafter to script tiatrs that would hold a mirror to society, chronicling the good, bad and ugly.

Take the case of Cavelchi Sundari, a tale scripted in 1890s Bombay under the British Raj. In it, two educated Catholic girls from the Goan diaspora want to ditch the arranged marriage route and marry for love. One girl leaves a suitor with a stable job for a wandering seafarer. The other takes a lover from a lower class, and continues the affair in a garden till her father discovers a love letter. Their fathers seek police intervention to separate the lovers, but the law sides with the girl. There's a reference to the September 21, 1890, firing in Margao, Goa, which killed 23 Indians who were protesting against municipal polls rigged in favour of a Portuguese candidate.

Uncanny how the socio-political issues chronicled in the 130-year-old tiatr still find resonance today. Be it tradition v/s modernity, women's emancipation or even caste politics, over 90 per cent tiatrs are social dramas, “since tiatrs have been used as a very effective means of social reform,” notes Rafael in his book.

Till the Goa Liberation of 1961, it was impossible to stage political tiatrs that mocked the colonisers. “Now tiatrists criticise the politicians sitting in the front row, and the politicians are left with no option but to laugh it off,” observes Rafael.

Dr Shamin Pereira, a PhD in Library Science and is Assistant Professor in the Library and Information Science department at Goa University is presenting a paper on “impact of Tiatr culture on the society” On 25th November at 3pm in St.Aloysius College LCRI auditorium. She debuted in Cavelchi Sundari, playing the friend who helps the protagonist carry on her clandestine affair.

Micheal Gracias has conducted over 150 tiatr workshops for youth in mainly remote parts of Goa. His SMN group of young actors won the prestigious Mando of the Year award at the 54th Mando festival this year, along with 13 TAG Group B awards.

Gracias' tiatrs are helmed on family, social themes with a political edge. His Nachchona Kumpasar (I Will Not Dance to Your Tune)—borrowing from veteran crooner Lorna Cordeira's song Nachom-ia Kumpasa—dwells on tactics politicians employ to fool the youth. Sintidan Pai Ghal Go Bai (Walk Cautiously Baby) was a reaction to the Nirbhaya rape case in Delhi and the rape of a 12-year-old girl at a school in Vasco, Goa. “I aim to ‘conscientise’ people. Discussing these happenings in taverns does not make you a responsible citizen.”

As the part of Bionex-22 Association activity, the students of the Department of Postgraduate Studies and Research in Biochemistry visited the St Aloysius College Museum "Aloyseum" On 07-11-2022 at 2 pm. Students were fascinated by the mounted skeletons of wild creatures (such as tigers, panthers, antelope, and wild boars), as well as the bones and skins of various animals, among the Aloyseum's sizable eclectic collection. Ancient containers and utensils used by Mangaloreans, as well as the first generator ever used in the city also caught their attention. With its extensive holdings, the museum as a whole is a veritable gold mine of Aloysius College's important historical information. All students enjoyed the trip to the Aloyseum and the things they saw and learned there were among the most enriching experiences of their time in college.

Workshop on Need for speed: Minimize the impact of Bufferbloat on IOT Application

The IT faculty attended a workshop on 28th Oct 2022. The resource person was Dr. Mohit P. Tahiliani, Assistant professor, Dept of Computer Science and Engineering, NITK, Surathkal.

Dr Tahiliani began by emphasising the context of the current topic 'Need for speed: Minimize the impact of Bufferbloat on IOT Applications', which was followed by an in-depth knowledge communication on how to control the delay in the internet, handle latency tolerance with real problems and how they could be solved through research and technology.

In his talk, he said that one cannot make network congestion free, but can only control the network.

"Reducing latency is one of the research areas where you can work for even the next fifteen years," Dr. Tahiliani said. He gave insights on current trends in end-to-end congestion control and explained the impact of buffer bloat on IOT applications.

He also gave the faculties ideas on how to make assignments and course projects more innovative and interesting. He further discussed project ideas which could attract the interest of students to play the role of interns in different organisational forums, which would fetch them jobs later.

Orientation Programme for the first year batch of IT students

The Department of IT of AIMIT, St Aloysius College (Autonomous) held a one-day Orientation programme for the first year batch of IT students for the academic year 2022-23 on November 30. The programme began with an invocation of God's blessing through a prayer song, sung by the second-year MCA students.

Dr Hemalatha N, Dean IT, addressed the gathering with her opening remarks and wished the students a fruitful session. Fr Joyson Vas SJ was the resource person.

The resource person began the orientation with a message of respecting everyone and inculcating openness in our day to day lives. The students were then divided into eight groups and a group leader was selected to represent the group.

The first session of the day began with a group action song followed by a group activity, 'who would you save?' and a lecture on the same. The students were then engaged in a song which was taught to them by the resource person before the session was dismissed for a tea break.

After the break, the resource person conducted an informative session on different personality types, how to understand oneself, how to overcome self-doubt and comparison, and provided the students with effective tools to improve themselves and their personalities.

The third session commenced after lunch. Students were yet again taught an action song which motivated them for the upcoming session. A talk on 'mindset' was given by the resource person with a practical demonstration.

Followed by this, a group activity was conducted wherein a member of each group was to be dressed with newspapers. This act reflected the unity and team work each group possessed. Students were given an opportunity to share their experiences while working in groups, to enhance and to uphold the effect of such group activities.

A group photograph of the participants was clicked to commemorate and cherish the success of the event. The session continued with the resource person educating the students on Jesuit education and values. Later, a session on keeping one's 'mindset fresh' and 'positive' assisted by a visual demonstration followed.

In the last and final session, the students were guided on 'time management' and 'effective study methods'. An activity wherein one had to mention good traits of their friend was conducted to enrich the essence of the last session thereby to conclude the orientation programme. Throughout the session, animated short films and videos were screened.

The programme was planned and guided by Fr Alwyn D'Souza SJ, campus minister.

INSPIRE

It is said to average people discuss things and great people discuss ideas. Though modern education today is not merely concerned with giving formal knowledge, rather it aims at the complete development of the personality of an individual, so that a person becomes capable to face any challenges in life and also harnesses inner potential for social betterment. And, yet as students, at times we're missing the best part as we have other priorities that compete for our time and attention.

And the department of history of St Aloysius College, Mangaluru has taken an initiative "INSPIRE" to bring the students face to face with influential people who believe in their power to achieve their dreams, and believe that nothing is out of reach, and that belief inspires those around them to stretch for their own goals. And the whole idea of this session INSPIRE series is to equip us with the power of knowledge to propel us to understand our true potential.

And on Thursday, 10 November, one such personality who is not just an inspiring KAS officer but also a person who had the opportunity to serve as a teacher among young students was Binoy P K, Assistant Commissioner, Land Acquisition, Mangaluru. The programme began with a prayer song by Supreth Steven, followed by a welcome address by Dr Vishanz Pinto HOD, Department of History.

Addressing the audience, Binoy P K spoke on the theme, "How to handle failures", where he said, "These days one can get inspiration from every corner, but what stops one from achieving one's goal is lack of follow-up. He believes that it's not enough to just have a goal and get motivated by looking at powerful people around, one needs to shed sweat in order to reach the goal. It's just like getting motivated to lose a few kilograms of weight. It's not enough to take celebrities as role models, but how much is one ready to take the pain of working out each day to achieve a perfect body? So perspiration is vital in the process. The journey towards success is never easy, sometimes people lose faith in you, and family too can be critical of you and stop expecting things from you. But it's normal to encounter failures on the path of excellence, for the people who now bog you down will be astonished to see you scaling the ladder of success". Following his speech, he answered a few questions put forth by the students.

The Vote of thanks was proposed by Dr Mona Mendonca, Assistant professor and the coordinator of this event, and the programme was eloquently compered by Miss Vidhula. Dr Charles Furtado-Director of Admin Block and Dr Rose Veera D'Souza- Professor in the Department of Political Science, among others were present.

Students of St. Aloysius College visited Snehalaya and organised Shramadhan as part of "SAHAAYA Project"

A group of 80 students visited Snehalaya as part of "SAHAAYA Project" on 16th November 2022. Brother Joseph Crasta, the founder of Snehalaya along with staff welcomed the team and detailed his 13-year journey after the institutional activity video presentation.

The residents of Snehalaya and the students from St. Aloysius College cleaned the public road at Bachalike, Pavor. The Main Road was covered in bushes, which made it extremely challenging for vehicles and the public to travel. The students were then divided into seven groups and a cleaning drive was conducted. From Snehalaya to Gerukatte, the groups cleaned the roadside garbage, trash, and tree branches that had fallen into the roads. The students put in a huge amount of effort to clean the entire area.

In the afternoon session the students interacted with the residents. They were very excited to speak with and engage with the residents of Snehalaya. The Snehalaya family as a whole experienced joy while at the same time. The students and faculty members also shared their experiences with Snehalaya at the completion of the visit. Dr. Renitta D Souza, Dr. Racheal, Mrs. Gopika, Dr. Anita, Ms. Philomena, Ms. Daya the Faculties from St. Aloysius College Accompanied the students during this one day Shramadhan and exposure visit. The staff members of Snehalaya assisted the students in this venture.

Shramadhan at SAC Hostel Someshwara

A group of 70 students of Management Association engaged themselves in a shramadhan program organized by Centre for Social Concern on 6th November 2022 at St Aloysius College Hostel Someshwara. Students were divided into groups according to the mentors and works assigned accordingly. Students heled in cleaning the surroundings of the hostel. It was a fun-filled activity as well as a great exposure for the students. Ms Philomena, Ms

Ashitha Pinto, Ms Maina, Ms Ann, Mr Akhil, Mr Sharath accompanied the students.
